St. Paul's School

Founded in 1856, St. Paul's School is a highly academic, 100 percent boarding school, 68 miles north of Boston, situated on a historic campus of 2,000 wooded acres in New Hampshire's state capital. The School began with three students, and among their first assignments was to go fishing. A love of the School's natural habitat has remained constant since those early days.

The School's 530 students benefit from wonderful facilities, such as the Lindsay Center for Mathematics and Science, a 95,000-square-foot Athletic & Fitness Center, the Crumpacker Boathouse overlooking Turkey Pond, dual ice rinks, squash and indoor tennis courts, nine athletic fields, a lighted artificial-turf field, the Friedman Community Center, and a newly renovated Visual Arts Building and Crumpacker Gallery.

The School's philosophy is predicated on its founding principles; it is rooted in the Episcopal tradition and supports superb programming within its community-based, fully residential educational model.
